

The Law of Investment Treaties

Second Edition

JESWALD W. SALACUSE

OXFORD
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Contents—Summary

List of Abbreviations	xix
Table of Cases	xxi
Table of Conventions, Treaties, and Agreements	xxix
1. A Global Regime for Investment	1
2. The Nature and Significance of International Investment	26
3. The Foundations of International Investment Law	46
4. A History of International Investment Treaties	87
5. The General Structure of Investment Treaties	141
6. The Interpretation of Investment Treaties	155
7. Scope of Application of Investment Treaties	174
8. Investment Promotion, Admission, and Establishment	213
9. General Treatment Standards	228
10. Monetary Transfers and Treatment	284
11. Treatment of State Obligations (the ‘Umbrella Clause’)	299
12. Protection Against Expropriation, Nationalization, and Dispossession	313
13. Other Treatment Standards	358
14. Investment Treaty Exceptions, Modifications, and Terminations	376
15. Investment Treaty Dispute Settlement	392
16. The Consequences of Treaty Violations	436
Index	453

Contents

List of Abbreviations	xix
Table of Cases	xxi
Table of Conventions, Treaties, and Agreements	xxix
1. A Global Regime for Investment	1
1.1 Introduction to Investment Treaties	1
1.2 The Significance of Investment Treaties	4
1.3 A Regime for International Investment	6
1.4 The Application of Regime Theory to Investment Treaties	10
(a) Regime elements	10
(b) Regime principles	10
(c) Regime norms	12
(d) Regime rules	13
(e) Regime decision-making	14
1.5 A Different Kind of Regime	15
(a) Bilateral construction	15
(b) Privatized and decentralized decision-making	17
(c) Lack of a multilateral international organization	18
1.6 Regime Challenges and Prospects	19
1.7 Conclusion: A Sticky Regime?	21
1.8 The Aim and Scope of This Book	23
2. The Nature and Significance of International Investment	26
2.1 Introduction	26
2.2 The Meaning of Investment	26
2.3 Forms of Investment	27
(a) Property and contractual rights resulting from investments	28
(b) Control attributes of the investment	29
(c) Enterprise form	30
2.4 The Nature of Investors	31
(a) Private investors	32
(b) State investors	33
(c) International organizations	34
(d) Mixed enterprises	35
2.5 The Role of Return and Risk	35
2.6 The Nature of International Investment	36
2.7 Forms of International Investment	38
(a) Foreign direct investment	38
(b) Foreign portfolio investment	39
(c) International loans	40

(d) International bonds	40
(e) Suppliers' and others' credits	41
(f) Other contractual arrangements	41
2.8 The Nature of International Investors	42
2.9 State Interests in International Investment	44
3. The Foundations of International Investment Law	46
3.1 Background of the Investment Treaty Movement	46
3.2 State and Investor Interests Shaping International Investment Law	46
(a) Host country interests	47
(b) Investor interests	48
(c) Investor home country interests	48
(d) Conflicts of interest and their settlement	49
3.3 The Sources of International Law	51
(a) In general	51
(b) International conventions	52
(c) International custom	54
(d) General principles of law	55
(e) Subsidiary sources	55
3.4 Customary International Law and General Principles of Law Governing International Investment	56
(a) Introduction	56
(b) Standards of treatment owed to aliens by host states	57
(c) The application and enforcement of a minimum standard	59
3.5 Customary International Law on Expropriation and Breach of State Contracts	64
(a) In general	64
(b) Taking under international law	65
(c) Public purpose	67
(d) Discrimination	68
(e) Compensation	68
(f) Breaches of state contracts	70
3.6 Challenges to Western Views on International Investment Law	72
(a) Background	72
(b) The Soviet challenge	73
(c) The Latin American challenge	75
(d) The post-colonial challenge	78
3.7 Deficiencies of Customary International Law on Investment	85
4. A History of International Investment Treaties	87
4.1 Introduction: The Treatification of International Investment Law	87
4.2 Historical Background of the Treatification Process	88
(a) The early beginnings	88
(b) The emergence of a treaty framework for investment protection in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries	90
(c) Further developments in the eighteenth, nineteenth, and early twentieth centuries	92

(d) From World War I until World War II	94
(e) The immediate aftermath of World War II	95
(f) The later post-World War II years	97
(i) Bilateral efforts	97
(ii) Multilateral efforts	98
(g) The development of the bilateral investment treaty and the creation of the International Centre for Settlement of Investment Disputes	100
(h) The gathering momentum of the BIT movement	104
(i) The development of multilateral regional and sectoral investment agreements	106
(i) Arab States Investment Agreement	106
(ii) Islamic States Investment Agreement	107
(iii) ASEAN Comprehensive Investment Agreement	108
(iv) Mercosur investment treaties	111
(v) COMESA Treaty	112
(vi) North American Free Trade Agreement	113
(vii) The Energy Charter Treaty	114
(viii) Dominican Republic–Central America–United States Free Trade Agreement	115
(j) The evolution of BIT provisions into free trade agreements	116
(k) Efforts at a global treaty on investment	118
(l) The trend towards regional and inter-regional trade and investment treaties	122
(m) Conclusion	123
4.3 The Objectives of the Movement to Negotiate Investment Treaties	124
4.4 Primary Objectives of Investment Treaties	124
(a) Investment protection	125
(b) Investment promotion	125
4.5 Secondary Objectives of Investment Treaties	127
(a) Market liberalization	127
(b) Relationship building	128
(c) Domestic investment encouragement	129
(d) Improved governance and a strengthened rule of law	129
4.6 Long-Term Goals of Investment Treaties	129
4.7 The Treaty Negotiation Process	130
(a) Bilateral negotiation processes	131
(b) Multilateral negotiation processes	133
4.8 The Consequences of Investment Treaties	133
(a) Investment protection	133
(b) Investment promotion	135
(c) Economic liberalization	137
(i) An absolutist evaluation of liberalization	137
(ii) A relativist evaluation of liberalization	139
(d) Conclusion	140
5. The General Structure of Investment Treaties	141
5.1 A Structural Overview	141

5.2 Treaty Title and Statement of Purpose	142
5.3 Scope of Application of Investment Treaties	143
5.4 Conditions for the Entry of Foreign Investment and Investors	146
5.5 General Standards of Treatment of Foreign Investments and Investors	146
(a) Fair and equitable treatment	147
(b) Full protection and security	147
(c) Unreasonable or discriminatory measures	148
(d) International law	148
(e) State obligations	149
(f) National and/or most-favoured-nation treatment	149
5.6 Monetary Transfers	150
5.7 Expropriation and Dispossession	150
5.8 Operational and Other Conditions	151
5.9 Losses from Armed Conflict or Internal Disorder	151
5.10 Treaty Exceptions, Modifications, and Terminations	152
5.11 Dispute Settlement	152
5.12 Conclusion	154
6. The Interpretation of Investment Treaties	155
6.1 The Task of Interpretation	155
6.2 Rules of Interpretation	156
6.3 The Treaty Text	156
(a) Sources of investment treaty texts	156
(i) Government sources	156
(ii) International organization sources	158
(iii) Unofficial and non-governmental sources of investment treaty texts	159
(b) The language of treaty texts	160
6.4 'Ordinary Meaning' of Treaty Terms	161
6.5 'Context' of Treaty Terms and 'Object and Purpose' of the Treaty	162
6.6 'Subsequent Agreement' and 'Subsequent Practice'	164
6.7 'Relevant Rules of International Law Applicable between the Parties'	165
6.8 Special Meanings Intended by the Parties	168
6.9 Supplementary Means of Interpretation	168
6.10 Arbitration and Judicial Decisions	170
6.11 Scholarly Commentary on Investment Treaties	172
7. Scope of Application of Investment Treaties	174
7.1 The Significance of a Treaty's Scope of Application	174
7.2 'Investments' Covered by Investment Treaties	176
7.3 Broad Asset-Based Definitions of Investments with an Illustrative List of Investment Forms	177
7.4 Broad Asset-Based Definitions Specifying Substantive Investment Characteristics as well as Illustrative Forms	180

7.5 Asset-Based Definitions with an Exhaustive List of Investment Forms	183
7.6 Limitations on Definitions of 'Investment'	184
(a) Legal requirements	184
(b) Territorial requirements	188
(c) Temporal requirements	192
(d) Sector requirements	194
(e) Approved project requirements	195
7.7 Arbitral Applications of Investment Definitions in Special Situations	196
(a) Pre-investment expenditures	197
(b) Minority shareholdings	200
(c) Indirect shareholdings	204
7.8 'Investors' Covered by Investment Treaties	206
(a) Natural persons as 'investors'	207
(b) Companies and other legal entities as 'investors'	208
(c) States and state-owned entities as 'investors'	211
8. Investment Promotion, Admission, and Establishment	213
8.1 State Sovereignty and Foreign Investment	213
8.2 Foreign Investment Promotion	214
8.3 Admission of Investments	217
8.4 Admission According to Host Country Law	218
8.5 Grants of a Relative Right of Establishment	221
8.6 Grants of an Absolute Right of Establishment	225
9. General Treatment Standards	228
9.1 The Nature of Investment and Investor Treatment	228
9.2 Overview of General Treatment Standards	229
9.3 Protection and Security	230
(a) In general	230
(b) Historical origins of the standard	231
(c) Full protection and security in the modern era	233
(d) Conclusion	240
9.4 Fair and Equitable Treatment	241
(a) Background	241
(b) Formulation of the standard	243
(c) The complexities of interpreting and applying the standard	244
(d) Differing concepts of the fair and equitable standard	245
(i) Fair and equitable treatment as the international minimum standard	245
(ii) Fair and equitable treatment standard as an autonomous standard additional to international law	249
(e) The content of the standard	251
(i) Failure to protect the investor's legitimate expectations	253
(ii) Failure to act transparently	260
(iii) Arbitrary and discriminatory actions	261

(iv) Denial of justice or due process	264
(v) Good faith	266
(f) Conclusion	266
9.5 Other General Standards of Treatment	269
(a) In general	269
(b) Treatment in accordance with international law	270
(c) Avoidance of arbitrary, discriminatory, or unreasonable measures	272
9.6 National Treatment	274
(a) Competition and discrimination	274
(b) National treatment in investment treaties	274
(c) The application of the national treatment standard	277
(i) With whom should the claimant be compared?	277
(ii) What is the nature of the difference in treatment?	279
(iii) Is the difference in treatment justified?	279
9.7 Most-Favoured-Nation Treatment	280
10. Monetary Transfers and Treatment	284
10.1 The Significance of Monetary Transfers	284
10.2 The General Scope of the Right to Make Transfers	285
10.3 Types of Payments Covered by Transfer Provisions	289
10.4 The Currency of Transfer	292
10.5 The Applicable Exchange Rate	293
10.6 The Time for Effecting Transfers	294
10.7 Exceptions	294
11. Treatment of State Obligations (the 'Umbrella Clause')	299
11.1 The Problem of the Obsolescing Bargain	299
11.2 Umbrella Clauses in General	301
11.3 Historical Background of the Umbrella Clause	304
11.4 Formulations of the Umbrella Clause	305
11.5 Application of the Umbrella Clause	307
11.6 A Framework for Applying Umbrella Clauses	311
12. Protection Against Expropriation, Nationalization, and Dispossession	313
12.1 The Risk of Expropriation, Nationalization, and Dispossession	313
12.2 Investment Treaty Provisions on Expropriation, Nationalization, and Dispossession	316
12.3 The Scope of Expropriation, Nationalization, and Dispossession Clauses	318
(a) The nature of the expropriating actor	318
(b) The nature of the property expropriated	318
(c) The nature of the expropriating act	320
12.4 Direct Expropriations, Nationalizations, and Disposessions	322
12.5 Indirect Expropriations, Nationalizations, and Disposessions	325
12.6 Governmental Actions Equivalent or Tantamount to Expropriation	327

12.7 Types of Government Measures that May Constitute Indirect Expropriation	328
(a) Disproportionate tax increases	329
(b) Interference with contractual rights	330
(c) Unjustified interference with the management of the investment	332
(d) Revocation or denial of government permits or licences	333
12.8 Criteria for Distinguishing Indirect Expropriation from Legitimate Regulation	335
(a) Degree of interference with investor property rights	335
(i) Severity of economic impact and loss of effective control	336
(ii) Duration of the governmental measure	338
(b) Frustration of the investor's legitimate expectations	339
(c) Lack of proportionality	341
(d) Non-transparency, arbitrariness, and discrimination	343
(e) Sole effects versus purpose and context of the measure	345
12.9 Newer Treaties' Approach to Distinguishing Legitimate Regulation from Indirect Expropriation	347
12.10 Conditions for the Legality of Expropriations, Nationalizations, and Disposessions	349
(a) Expropriation measure must be for a public purpose	349
(b) Expropriation must not be discriminatory	350
(c) Expropriation must take place in accordance with due process of law	351
(d) Expropriation must be accompanied by compensation	352
(i) The standard of compensation	352
(ii) The question of compensation for legal and illegal expropriations	354
(iii) Valuation methods	356
13. Other Treatment Standards	358
13.1 Introduction to Other Treaty Standards	358
13.2 Treatment with Respect to Performance Requirements	358
13.3 Entry and Residence of Foreign Nationals and Managerial Personnel	364
13.4 Compensation for Losses Due to War, Revolution, and Civil Disturbance	367
13.5 Transparency and Regulatory Due Process	370
13.6 The Subrogation Obligation	374
14. Investment Treaty Exceptions, Modifications, and Terminations	376
14.1 The Tensions of Investment Treaties	376
14.2 Treaty Exceptions	377
(a) In general	377
(b) Exceptions to protect essential security interests and the maintenance of public order	378

(i)	The self-judging nature of the exception clause	380
(ii)	Application of exception clauses to economic crises	381
(iii)	Elements justifying the exception	382
(c)	Exceptions for specified national legislation	385
14.3	Treaty Modifications	387
14.4	Treaty Terminations	388
15.	Investment Treaty Dispute Settlement	392
15.1	The Significance of Investment Treaty Dispute Settlement	392
15.2	The Nature of Disputes between States and Investors	393
15.3	Traditional, Non-Treaty Methods of Resolving Investor–State Disputes	396
(a)	Direct negotiations with host governments	396
(b)	Local courts	397
(c)	Diplomatic protection	398
15.4	Treaty Methods for Resolving Investment Disputes	399
15.5	Interstate Consultations and Negotiations	399
15.6	Interstate Arbitration	401
15.7	Investor–State Consultations and Negotiations	406
15.8	Investor–State Arbitration	411
(a)	The nature and evolution of international arbitration	411
(b)	The development of investor–state arbitration	417
(c)	The incorporation of investor–state arbitration into treaties	422
(d)	Governing law	424
(e)	The differing natures of investor–state arbitration provisions	425
(i)	The unequivocal nature of the state’s consent to arbitrate	426
(ii)	The scope of consent	427
(iii)	Conditions precedent to invoking investor–state arbitration	427
(iv)	Available dispute resolution forums	429
(f)	The growth and significance of investor–state arbitration	429
(g)	Waiver of investor rights to investor–state arbitration	432
(h)	The Impetus for Reform of Investor–state dispute settlement	434
16.	The Consequences of Treaty Violations	436
16.1	The Question of Consequences	436
16.2	The Silence of the Treaty Texts	436
16.3	Application of Customary International Law on State Responsibility	441
16.4	Investment Treaty Remedies in General	443
16.5	Valuation Techniques and Damages	445
(a)	In general	445
(b)	Three basic approaches to valuation	448
(i)	Market or sales comparison approaches	449
(ii)	Income capitalization approaches	449
(iii)	Asset-based or cost approaches	450